Kasper Raglus

Silent Sky

Exhibition runs from
OCT 6 - NOV 4, 2018

Kasper Raglus

Kasper's own special brand of contemporary geometric abstraction has few peers in the Australian art world.

A long-time resident and explorer of Victoria's famed Surf Coast, Kasper's nuanced blending of minimalism, geometry, hard edge conventions and painterly detailing produces bold and intricate explorations of his own natural and cultural environments – layered material notations, pigmented records and maps of worlds both internal and external, familial and personal.

The son of renowned Australian Mambo illustrator, Jeff Raglus, Kasper grew up surrounded by creativity, and wearing the artwork of his father which lead him on a trajectory to study graphic art. After a formative trip to California in 2011, Kasper was inspired to get into studio and commence his own artistic journey. Kasper says:

Whilst painting for SILENT SKY I was thinking about finding space and appreciating quiet times when you can just breathe and think about where you are right then and there, for me that is when I am surfing... I think my work in this show is more stripped down to only the essential shapes and colours needed to convey this. A moment of time to turn off your mind from today's online life.

The last few years has seen Kasper exhibit in several major local and international exhibitions. He now lives on the coast based in Aireys Inlet and revels in painting, surfing and spending time with much loved dog Jirra.

Kasper's first solo Sydney exhibition is showing at The Koskela Gallery in Rosebery.
